POWDERPACK

Labyrinth powderpack films can be used to pack any sort of powder and fine substance. It's specially developed labyrinth venting system, ensures that excessive air will be released during the packing process. The exact pattern of the venting system can be tailor made, depending on the product you will be using.

The labyrinth structure also prevents contamination from the outside and will also protect against moistures flowing through the film. It is possible to use the film as a tube or as a bag, depending on the packaging line you are using. It is also possible for us to flexo print in as much as 10 colours.
