

Even More Networking Opportunities at Logistic & Industrial Build

Logistic & Industrial Build once again joins the largest logistics trade fair in the Benelux, Transport & Logistics. Starting in 2025, AntwerpXL will also be part of the group, creating even more opportunities for visitors. From October 14 to 16, 2025, 15,000 professionals from across the supply chain, both within and beyond the Benelux, will gather at the Antwerp Expo.

Focusing on the logistics and industrial real estate and construction sectors, Logistic & Industrial Build serves as a specialized complement to Transport & Logistics, appealing to a broad network. This year, the network is further enhanced by the addition of AntwerpXL. The specialized breakbulk trade fair attracts 3,800 project cargo, RoRo, and Heavy Lift professionals to the Antwerp Expo. Strategic partner and sponsor Port of Antwerp-Bruges is also looking forward to this unique co-location in October 2025.

Benefits of Cross-Pollination

The first three editions of Logistic & Industrial Build were well-received. “The logistics sector also faces challenges in real estate. There’s plenty of interest from our professionals to come together and address these challenges,” says Donna Leroy, Marketing Event Manager of Logistic & Industrial Build. “The fact that they can now meet and share their expertise and vision with major players in the breakbulk industry is a great bonus.”

“We are very excited about this collaboration,” says Margaret Dunn, Portfolio Director of AntwerpXL. “Our hall remains the beating heart of the breakbulk industry in Antwerp. But by joining forces with Transport & Logistics and Logistic & Industrial Build, the industry gains the attractive opportunity to network within a broader community of logistics professionals.”

Transport & Logistics, celebrating its 15th anniversary edition this year, is equally enthusiastic about the addition of AntwerpXL. “Our ever-expanding network and audience already benefited from the cross-pollination opportunities with Logistic & Industrial Build. Now that AntwerpXL is joining us, this strengthens all three of us even further,” assures Nadine Francus, Group Event Director of Transport & Logistics. “The possibilities for unique partnerships and connections are up for grabs this year, making our anniversary edition one not to miss.”
