RETHINKING THE WORKPLACE

The first HANDKE workstation using augmented reality powered by Arkite transforms the workplace into a digital and interactive environment.

- Employee guidance through projected operating instructions for the activity sequence (text, image, video)
- Pick-to-projection support ensuring outstanding performance
- Prevention of human error
- Object orientation and presence detection
- Reduction of rework and rejects
- Fast familiarisation for new employees
- Skills-based guidance and confirmation of performance
- High level of system adaptability
- Multiple languages can be set
- Option to integrate ERP, e.g. SAP
- Management of product variants enables flexible batch sizes

ERGONOMIC WORKING

Among other things, our workstations can also be equipped with lifting systems, which means that a workstation can be customised to the individual's height, reducing the risk of postural damage.

Ergonomic work systems not only protect the health of employees, they also induce motivation and make work easier.
